VAST CHANGES UNDER WAY IN SOVIET UNION

Postwar 'House Cleaning' By Stalin Touches Every Walk of Life in Russia.

By HARRISON SALISBURY
(Copyright, 1946, by United Press)

Things have been going on inside Russia this summer which have reached the outside world only in bare fragments. Today it is possible to put these fragments together and see what they mean.

They tell a story of vast changes within the Soviet Union.

First reference to these events used the word "purge." This desination appeared in a dispatch which United Press Correspondent M. S. Handler was permitted to send his New York office from Moscow on June 26.

"All (Moscow) newspapers report," said Handler's cablegram, "that the ministry of state control is purging and committing to trial factory directors, engineers and accountants throughout the country who have been faking production figures, receiving bonuses illegally, misappropriating factory funds and converting state property for personal use."

* * *

Purge Widespread.

Other advices and other cables direct from Moscow since June show that Generalissimo Josef Stalin's postwar house cleaning has not been confined to Soviet industry alone.

Shifts in personnel and removals from office, reorganization and investigation have reached high into government ministries. They have reached into the Red army, the Communist party and even into the country's intellectual and artistic life.

Unlike other Soviet upheavals, notably those of the mid-thirties, the sentences so far reported have been confined to prison terms and fines.

RAID 3 BANKS IN HOLY LAND

Underground Forces Escape With $20,000.

JERUSALEM—(UP)—The Jewish underground launched simultaneous attacks on three big banks and the Jaffa prison today and escaped with $20,000 after gun battles in which three persons were killed, two wounded and eight raiders captured.

The operation was one of the most daring yet undertaken by the Jewish underground and brought heavy detachments of British troops pouring into Jaffa and Tel Aviv, scene of the operations, and intensive security measures in Jerusalem.

Casualties included a 22-year-old Yemenite member of the attacking band, an Arab constable and an unidentified person killed; two girls wounded and eight raiders captured.

Banks attacked were the Barclay and Ottoman banks in Jaffa, and the Ottoman bank in Tel Aviv. Police and security details broke up the attacks on the two Jaffa banks and the casualties occurred when the raiders tried to shoot their way out of the Ottoman bank in Jaffa.

The attack on the Ottoman bank at Tel Aviv was successful and the attackers succeeded in getting away with 5,000 pounds, about $20,000. Initial reports that the loot was 105,000 pounds—$420,000—were incorrect.

Threat of Power Strike Diminishes

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The threat of a second paralyzing power strike within a year in the industrially rich Pittsburgh area diminished today after representatives of the Duquesne Light company and its independent union agreed to submit their wage and other differences to arbitration.

Acceptance of the arbitration proposal came a few minutes before last midnight on the eve of a common pleas court hearing on the question of whether a temporary injunction, granted last Tuesday shortly before the strike deadline, should be made permanent. The injunction forbade the strike as being dangerous to public health and safety.

All You Need Is a Government Permit For Two Pair of Pants!

By JOHN MINE

So you're in pursuit of a suit with two pairs of pants, huh? Well, hang on. You can get it—if the government says it's OK.

'Course it may take a little work. Your new, blue serge may be trimmed in red tape by the time it arrives.

But if the government decides that you're a two-pants man, brother, you're in! Assuming, of course, that you can find a shop that's got suits with a measly old ONE pair of pants.

Here's the way the pants scheme works: First you gotta think up a good idea as to how come you need two pairs.

Maybe you're an untidy diner—and don't look well in what you eat. Two pairs of pants, you'll admit, would come in handy.

Could be you're a heavy "sitter" and your britches give out in the wrong spots at the wrong times. A two-pants tog is just what you're after.

Then, too, it may be that the "chain of command" at your ivy-covered cottage involves a gangling teen-ager who's longing for "longies." With two pairs of pants you'd be reasonably sure of having at least ONE for yourself.

(These excuses for a double set of trousers, of course, are only "suggestions." You can probably think up better ones.)

* * *

Let's assume that you've conjured up a good reason. You sit you down and write it out in some high-sounding form:

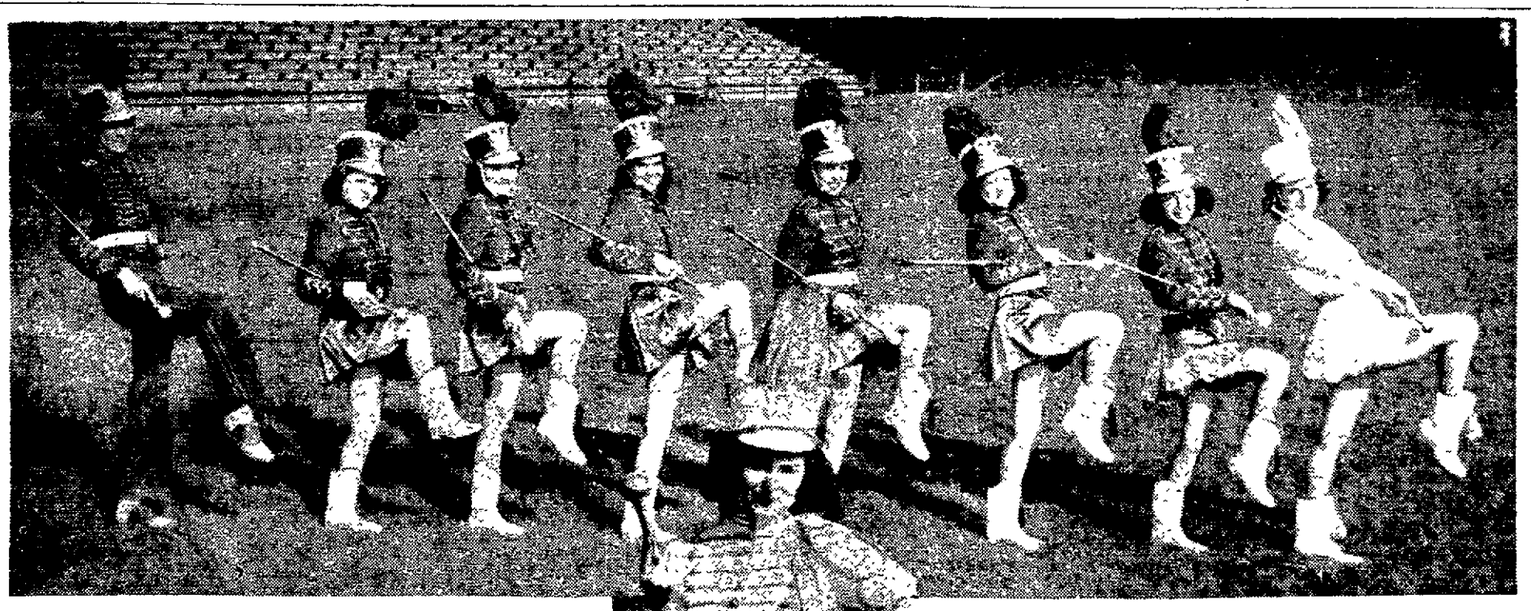
"I, Joe Doaks, do solemnly swear that a state of emergency exists in my homestead. To wit: my young son, Johnnie, has just swiped my last pair of pin stripes. Inasmuch as, and whereas Joe Doaks is about to bust out all over, etc., etc." See?

This you wrap up in an important-looking envelope. Legal size would be best. Address it to the Civilian Production Administration at Washington (no kidding), and sit back and wait.

At Washington, of course, the facts in the case would be "carefully weighed." If you're lucky you get a permit. If your case is weighed and found wanting, you either gotta think up a new excuse—or have your current britches re-lined.

Once a permit is in your hands, however, it's comparatively smooth sailing—a local clothing dealer informs us. You bring the permit in, it's sent to the suit-making factory and lo and behold "in time" your suit—with two pairs of pants—comes through.

P. S. If you want a vest, too, you follow the same procedure—our dealer informant tells us.



Six Thousand Expected At Tyger Grid Opener

Football makes his 1946 bow at Stadium field tonight when the Mansfield Senior high school Tygers meet the Marion Harding Presidents. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

Light rainfall this morning put the gridiron in good shape. Crisp, typically football weather was promised for tonight.

Advance ticket sales pointed to a crowd of approximately 6,500. All season books have been sold but general admission seats will be available at the field. A bleacher section, seating 500, has been erected beyond the north goal posts and 800 chairs have been placed on the track area.

Mansfield's crack 70-piece marching band has a nine-minute show planned for the half-time intermission. J. Merton Holcombe, director, plans to display several new formations. The band opens the evening's festivities at 7:45 with traditional flag-raising ceremonies.

Nearly 750 players, students and fans participated in a big pep rally at Stadium Field last night. The rally, sponsored by the Tyger club, was replete with band music, snake dance and red flares.

'Keep Strong,' Gen. Pershing Urges Nation

WASHINGTON — (INS) — General of the Armies John J. Pershing, ramrod-straight grand old man of the United States armed forces, celebrated his 86th birthday by urging that American diplomacy be enforced with "continued strength."

President Truman, who served under Pershing as an artillery major in World War I, was scheduled to visit his former commander to pay his respects, and congratulatory messages poured in from government officials, former comrades in arms and admirers in all parts of the world.

In a pre-birthday statement, Pershing said it is "incumbent upon our country to enforce our diplomacy with continued strength." Commenting upon World War II, he said:

"Once again, we have learned that preparedness is the guardian of peace, and particularly is this so in the age of the atomic bomb and guided missiles upon which we are entering."

Pershing is the only man to hold the rank of general of the armies, a special grade provided for him by act of congress. As such he out-ranks such men as Generals of the Army Eisenhower and MacArthur. The title differs only slightly, but Pershing's grade is higher.

Slavs Still Get Relief Supplies

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Acting Secretary of State William L. Clayton says the United States will not curtail relief shipments to Yugoslavia because of the Yugoslav attack on two unarmed American transport planes.

Clayton said the attacks, which cost five American lives, could be described only as "outrageous", but to retaliate by cutting off relief shipments and UNRRA aid, he said, would violate this government's international commitments.

RAPS VETO USE BY BIG POWERS

Australian Says Policy Saps Security Council Prestige.

PARIS—(UP)—An Australian delegate to the peace conference said today the United Nations security council was in disrepute through arbitrary use of the veto power, and should not be permitted to govern the proposed free territory of Trieste.

"The use of the veto power in the security council has been arbitrary, irresponsible and dictatorial and has brought the council into disrepute throughout the world," said Col. W. R. Hodgson, who has served as a delegate to the council.

"It would make the Trieste port question a threat to world peace."

To put the Trieste question in the hands of the security council, as suggested by the four-power foreign ministers council, "would insure making the plan unworkable," Hodgson argued. He said Trieste should be governed by a council representing the United States, Great Britain, Soviet Russia, France and three other nations.

His outright attack held implications of support for the opening question of Soviet Foreign Minister V. Molotov, who demanded information as to how the United States proposed to guarantee the liberty of the Trieste area under the security council scheme. Underlying Hodgson's attack, however, was Australia's steady fight on Russia's own use of the U.N. veto power.

The American delegate on the commission said only that he was not prepared to give a precise answer to Molotov's question at this time.

MAY WARM UP

Weatherman Says Mercury'll Probably Climb Saturday.

The weatherman, who was only partly right with his forecast for today, said tomorrow is going to be fair and maybe a little warmer.

He said today would be fair and chilly. It was chilly, all right, but Mansfielders who plodded about in the cold rain, knew it wasn't fair.

The mercury fell to 49 last night and may go a little lower tonight, the forecast said. By Saturday afternoon, however, the sun will warm things up a little, the forecaster said.

YANKS FIRE BILL

Dickey Relieved as Manager For Rest of Season.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The New York Yankees announced today that Bill Dickey has been relieved as club manager Johnny Neun, coach, will direct the club for the remainder of the season.

Larry MacPhail, president of the Yankees, issued a statement in Detroit, saying:

"I do not believe that the failure of the present team to live up to expectations can be laid at Dickey's door. But I do believe that his statement the other day, saying that he would not manage in 1947, coming as it did before an important series, was unfortunate and I think it for the best interests of the Yankees that Dickey not continue as manager."

City Rejects Garbage Tax Bill, Hears New Plan

City council was "starting from scratch" today to revamp Mansfield's garbage-ash collection system after the defeat last night of a garbage collection tax proposal.

Downed by a 6-to-3 vote, the proposal would have put to a public vote this fall a one and a half mill levy to pay for garbage service.

The proposal to collect garbage fees with property taxes was defeated without discussion from the floor. It was sponsored by Member-at-Large Charles O. Angling and would have made garbage service compulsory.

Following the brief meeting, council's sewer-garbage committee heard suggestions for improving the garbage collection set-up as outlined by a committee of five city officials and department heads.

The council committee is scheduled to caucus Sunday afternoon in an attempt to map legislation to offer council at its October meeting.

Here Are Suggestions.

The suggestions include:

1. Separation of the garbage and ash services.

2. Place collection service on six-month basis with fees payable in advance.

3. Collect garbage from homes weekly at these rates: $9 per year for weekly collections of 10 gallons; $18 per year for weekly collections of 11 to 20 gallons; $27 per year for weekly collections of 21 to 30 gallons; $36 per year for weekly collections of 31 to 40 gallons. Commercial charges will be at the domestic rates multiplied by the number of additional collections per week.

4. Require customers to provide containers of not to exceed 10-gallon capacity.

5. Ashes-trash collection shall be an optional additional charge.

6. Set up these rates for ash and trash service: $6 per year for 9 bushels or 300 pounds monthly; $12 per year for 10 to 18 bushels or 301 to 600 pounds monthly; $18 per year for 19 to 27 bushels or 601 to 900 pounds monthly, and $24 a year for 28 to 36 bushels or 901 to 1,200 pounds monthly.

7. Ashes and trash collections may include other non-inflammables such as glass, china and pottery in containers whose

794 WOMEN GET PAY INCREASES

Union Ratifies Boost of From 7 to 14 Cents an Hour.

Local 711, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, announced today ratification by the membership of an additional seven to 14-cents-an-hour wage increase for approximately 794 women workers in the local Westinghouse plant.

Joseph Hawkins, president, said the increase was part of the strike-settlement agreement reached with the Westinghouse corporation last May 9.

The boost is over and above the 18-cents-an-hour general wage increase granted at that time. All women employes will receive the increase, retroactive to May 9.

"This is a tremendous victory for the women workers and, in some cases, they will receive as high as 32 cents-an-hour increase," Hawkins said.

GETS NEW JOB

Truman Puts Frances Perkins on Civil Service Board.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Frances Perkins, first and only woman ever to occupy a cabinet seat, is carrying her tri-cornered hat back into the government again.

The 63-year-old former secretary of labor—a post she held throughout the New Deal despite considerable opposition from labor and industry—is coming back into the government as a member of the civil service commission. The pay is $12,000 a year, $3,000 less than she got in the cabinet.

Wallace's Talk Stirs Hornets

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Diplomatic authorities frankly predicted today that Secretary Wallace's foreign policy speech will stir a hornet's nest of controversy over American-Russian relations.

Despite President Truman's assertion that no departures from established United States foreign policy were involved there was wide speculation that it might also result in a sharp split between Wallace and Secretary of State Byrnes, now at the Paris peace conference.

* * *

DEMANDS CUT IN BRITISH TIES.

Calling for frank recognition of Russian and American "spheres of influence," Wallace at the same time denounced any "get tough with Russia" policies. He demanded too that this country abstain from close cooperation with Great Britain in controversies involving the Soviet Union.

The cabinet officer delivered the speech in New York last night at a meeting sponsored by the National Citizens Political Action Committee and the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions.

Long before its delivery, however, advance copies were made available in abundance at Wallace's office in the commerce department here, and the contents had become known to state department officials.

The initial reactions of these officials appeared to be one of stunned surprise at Wallace's blunt advocacy of policies which they evidently considered to be in conflict with those Byrnes has been following.

However, about four hours before Wallace spoke, Truman told his news conference that he approved of the whole speech.

APPEALS ORDER TO FREE HERO

State Seeks to Keep Inmate at OSR in Custody.

Donald W. Burson, 22-year-old winner of three Bronze Stars for heroism in World War II, faced today a new legal battle to win the freedom from an Ohio State reformatory cell which was ordered by a decision of the fifth district court of appeals.

Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins has filed with the county clerk of courts a notice of appeal to the state supreme court "on questions of law."

Burson, veteran of three years army service who saw action in three major battles in Europe, won a writ of habeas corpus from the appeals court which overruled Richland County Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch's refusal of the writ to Burson's sister, Mrs. Ida Irwin of Canton.

The former soldier, convicted of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent in 1942, has been serving a one-to-20-year term in OSR since last May. He was committed by Judge A. C. L. Barthlemeh of Stark county (Canton) common pleas court as a probation violator, principally because he left the state without his probation officer's permission and because of a conviction for intoxication in the Canton municipal court after Burson's discharge from the army last April.

Drops Plan For New Light Car

DETROIT—(INS)—General Motors today stopped preparations for the manufacture of the proposed Chevrolet light car as a result of a shortage of basic materials.

President C. E. Wilson announced the shortage includes lead, copper, pig iron and flat rolled steel.

CIO MUSCLES IN ON RAISE. FOR SEAMEN

Walks Out After Settlement With AFL; U. S. Expected to Grant New Boost.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government appeared ready today to cut in CIO seafarers, who struck last midnight, on the wage raises a White House ruling opened for AFL maritime workers.

J. Godfrey Butler, labor relations director for the maritime commission, told a reporter he thought the commission "would seek to extend to the CIO the same increases as were given to the AFL."

Even before Butler spoke, labor men were taking it for granted that uniform treatment would be given all maritime workers, regardless of their union. They regarded the formal strike by CIO unionists as simply part of the machinery grinding to that end.

Butler said he would recommend that the maritime commission formally advise ship operators that it had no objection to the raises going to the CIO.

* * *

Ships Still Idle.

Until the formalities are carried out, the merchant fleet remained idle. Maritime unions are so distributed that either the AFL or the CIO can freeze the industry.

John R. Steelman, who is both reconversion director and economic stabilizer, signaled an end for the AFL stoppage by giving the strikers the raises they wanted.

The AFL men on the west coast, headed by Harry Lundeberg, ended their strike last midnight. The east coast group, however, decided to hold out until it got "written assurances" from the government that the money would be approved—in its case $10 a month a man.

* * *

CIO Strikes.

The CIO National Maritime Union, led by Joe Curran, struck today to persuade employers to match the AFL wages.

The Steelman plan gives AFL seamen in the able-bodied class $5 to $10 more a month than the Wage Stabilization Board was willing to approve. The money will come partly from the pockets of private ship-owners and partly from the federal treasury.

The Steelman plan upheld the WSB ruling in one respect: in private shipping, the operators must absorb the $5 to $10 themselves, without passing it on to the public in the form of higher shipping rates.

In government shipping—still nearly half of the industry—Steelman simply changed the rules to permit the maritime commission to finance the higher wages without WSB approval.

KILLING STOPS

New York Butchers Peddle Meat at Backdoors.

CHICAGO—Slaughtering virtually was at a halt here today. One of the largest plants killed only two cattle yesterday as traders asserted 77 per cent of the 7,149 cattle received in the first two days this week went to eastern black markets.

In New York, butchers, peddling meat to housewives' back doors, were reported quoting pork chops at $1.00 for 1¾ pounds against an OPA ceiling of 84 cents and steak at $2.10 for 2¾ pounds against a $1.21 ceiling.

Twenty of the nation's largest livestock markets reported 655,000 animals received in the first 11 days under the new price controls. Under the old price ceilings in June, 1,193,000 animals reached the markets in 11 days.

States No Meat Means No Soap

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A soap shortage, more acute than during the worst war years is in the making as a direct result of the current "meat crisis," an official of the Procter and Gamble company, one of the world's largest manufacturers of soap products, declares.

The official, who declined use of his name, said yesterday the shortage would grow steadily worse "until the government takes measures to get livestock slaughter back on a reasonable basis. "Fat is the basic ingredient of soap," he declared, "and when no livestock is slaughtered the manufacturer is deprived of his major source of soap fats."

Engineer Blames Bad Roads for Part Of County's Vet Housing Problem

If Richland county's rural areas had better roads, there would be more houses for veterans, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said today.

Scores of homes have been abandoned during the past year or two because they weren't served by good roads, said the engineer, whose department is completing a $50,000 road repair and maintenance program.

"Lack of good roads is not the only reason rural homes have been abandoned. There are always other economic or social factors. But before you can live in the country you must have reasonably good roads there," Rusk said.

"Last year I kept an informal count and found that at least 75 homes were abandoned. The families have deserted them for one reason or another, most of the people following the trek into the cities where the housing shortage is at its worst," Rusk observed.

Some Impassable.

The engineer estimated that Richland county has nearly 40 miles of legally dedicated public roads which are either entirely impassable or in such condition to discourage use.

"A little more money and a more far-sighted road administration policy would lay the groundwork for eliminating the housing shortage as well as building up property values in rural areas.

If my department, for instance, had an additional cushion of $60,000 per year, we could add about 15 more miles of hard surfaced roads per year. With that, in 10 years the present income of the department would suffice to maintain the entire road system which instead is being dissipated in maintenance of inefficient gravel roads," Rusk said.

Hard surface roads which have been resurfaced in whole or in part this year are: Millsboro west, Olivesburg-Fitchville, Cook, Settlement east, Hummel, Anderson, Mickey, Champion, Plymouth-Springmill, Myers, Five Point east, Pleasant Valley, Possum Run, and Smith avenue. These total nearly 39 miles.

Possum Run road is expected to be completed Monday or Tuesday and will conclude the summer program, Rusk said.

MANSFIELD NEWS-JOURNAL

Winchell — On Broadway

FROM A N. Y. gazette's Wall Street observer of Sept. 9th: "If you want to evoke a cry of fury or anguish, just mention the name of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles around any broker or professional stock gambler today. 'He did it—and his cockeyed notions about forcing buyers to put up 100 per cent cash for their stock,' they'll tell you. In the last week I've heard responsible men call Eccles everything from a well-meaning fool to a dangerous meddler. Editorials from coast to coast are blaming the margin rules for the rapidity and extent of the (stock market) plunge."

Now see here, you fickle woman! You stop going around town giving credit for the market crash to that old Eccles, when you know very well that I am the one to blame . . . Who do you think you are, anyway, to set ourself up as the only one who doesn't blame me when everbody else gives me the credit?

From the same lady's page two story: "Professional traders and brokers, seeking explanations for the slump, again mentioned fears of renewed labor-management conflict and production-delaying strikes. Increasing talk of war with Russia. Belief that the 4-year bull market has ended and that the postwar boom will culminate soon."

There you go again! Giving other sthe credit!

* * *

Blaming us for the market crash is like throwing away the thermometer because it shows that the room is hot.

From a Detroit editorial: "Two reasons are advanced by the New York Times for the snowballing decline in stock prices. One is the effect of government interference . . . the other reason was attributed to a week-end radio broadcast 'by an irresponsible radio commentator' who predicted that war with Russia might come this year."

From the radio critique of Mr. John Crosby: "Mr. Winchell talks too fast for me, but I thought he said: 'The next world war will break out before the end of 1946.' Well, I called the American Broadcasting Company and I feel a little silly. Mr. Winchell's exact words—and I quote—were: 'DeGaulle's off-the-record opinion is that the next world war will break out before the end of 1946'. . . . Sit back and relax, everyone. It wasn't Winchell who predicted it; it was only DeGaulle."

Not the exact quote, but close enough.

* * *

From William Shirer's comments: "Well, there's no mystery about it. Russia and the U. S. are now currying favor with the Germans for the simple reason that they think the Germans may be useful in the struggle between the world's two giant powers" . . . From Drew Pearson's: 'The diplomats at Paris, who are preparing for the next war, should be tried as war criminals." From the column of David Lawrence: "In the next war the German and Japanese peoples will be allied with Great Britain and the U. S." . . . (Just as WW said first many months ago and, as usual, was christened a warmonger, irresponsible, etc.)

* * *

From a CBS correspondent (at Paris) over the air a few Sundays ago: "The way I see it the Big 4 are choosing up sides for the next world war." (Almost an exact echo of a WW report over 3 months ago.)

Gwan, you old irresponsible warmonger, you!

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—The Dies committee and its successor, the permanent committee to investigate subversive or un-American activities and agencies, often have been accused of red-baiting. However, the case of Sam Carp, originally Carpowski, of Bridgeport, Conn., is one flagrant example of appeasement.

Both the old committee and the new dealt gently with Sam Carp, who is a brother-in-law of Viacheslav Molotov, the foreign minister of the Soviet government, and he never was compelled to explain flagrant inconsistencies.

Carp was examined by the Dies committee in September, 1939, and re-examined by the new committee in September, 1945. In both sessions his testimony was contradictory in many respects. Although he had shown himself to be a very shrewd business man dealing in real estate and gasoline and oil stations in Bridgeport, his role before the committees was that of a man bespeaking kind understanding because the proceedings confused him.

* * *

He admitted that he made trips to Russia to visit his sister, Molotov's wife, and, incidentally, to "make a dollar," and said the Russian government "and officials," in direct negotiations with him, said they were ready to spend two hundred million dollars through him in the United States for war materials.

* * *

"I bought airplanes and everything," he said. "I used to get a commission."

Yet, when he was asked flatly whether he was a Russian agent, he denied that "absolutely."

"I worked for myself, in America," Carp said. "I would not be a Russian agent for anything in the world. I feel very insulted."

At the secret session of September, 1945, Carp was asked questions about his sister which, with his answers, indicate the delicacy of the situation. Carp had mentioned a visit of his sister to the United States.

"She was, at that time," he said, "a director over chemical factories. Like salt and every other thing. She bought machinery. I know she used to go and deal for that. I didn't have anything to do with it."

"You mean," he was asked, "she bought machinery and supplies and paid cash for them?"

"I suppose so," Sam said. "That is the way they paid. They always give you cash in advance when they buy. She was the director of the chemical industry trust."

"You didn't follow your sister around in the United States?"

"I wouldn't be permitted," Carp said. "She was so watched by their own man that I wanted to take her to show what sort of road here Americans produced, to show her the difference between Russia and America. I wanted to take her on the Merritt parkway in my own car but they wouldn't allow me. She had to have a detective along to watch. At my house they wouldn't allow nobody. That was the agreement, she could come to my house, but nobody, even relations or anybody, could come to see her."

Toward the end of the session, Congressman Rankin told Carp that, according to his own statements, he was an agent of the Russian government, whether he thought so or not. Carp insisted just as firmly that he was not required to register, and that ended the whole thing.

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Congress asked for it; I got it: The biggest headache of 1946. If you want to start an opium factory, borrow a bull, inspect a typewriter ribbon, or spend $262,000 for a set of handsome photographs, stick with me. Do not ask your congressman, because I don't think he knows.

The lawmakers in their wisdom last July ordered all the government bureaus to write down on paper what their jobs were. This was to be the information of bewildered congressmen.

* * *

The chore finally was completed last night (a couple of days late) by the government printing office. It ran to 735,000 well-chosen words on 966 closely-printed pages in four volumes with index. No congressman has read it; I doubt if any statesman ever does read it. I doubt if anybody reads it, except me.

* * *

My eyes are blurry and my head aches, but I have digested the facts, or at least some of them, for congress' information. For instance: If any senator intends to manufacture smoking opium, he must get a permit from the treasury department. If he has a fog horn, he's got to let the coast guard tune it.

If he wants to shoot a duck or catch a whale he must apply to the interior department. This department also runs a slaughter house, presumably steakless at the moment, in the Virgin Islands.

The weather bureau will fine anybody, senators included, $10,000 if he tries to sneak out the weather-crop reports ahead of time. The postoffice department rents lock boxes only to people of good character. The average congressman should qualify.

The war demage corporation uses 16 pages (at $40 a page) to list the 532 fire insurance companies, which will sell you a policy if you're still worried about bombs on your roof.

The food and drug administration examines every oyster that goes into a can; senators thinking about manufacturing penicillin-flavored cough-drops must fill in a special form.

I wish I had more space to tell the lawmakers about their book; I've room only to mention the fact that the war department has for sale at 50 cents each, a file of 525,000 war-like photographs, size eight by ten, glossy finish.

Call me, senators, if you have any other questions. Want to open a parking lot in downtown Los Angeles? Manufacture pin ball machines for gambling purposes? I am the fellow to ask. I read (Heaven help me) your book.

State Commission Considers Action Against Firm.

SANDUSKY —(AP)— The state conservation commission, meeting today at nearby Put-in-Bay, was expected to consider a report recommending that legal action be taken by the state against the Electric Autolite company in connection with Little Miami river pollution that killed an estimated 300,000 fish near Kings Mills, O.

The legal action, which Thomas Gallagher, chief of the conservation division's pollution section, said he recommended in a report to the commission would seek damages from the firm for fish killed and a restraining order to prevent a recurrence.

Damages for the death fish—estimated by Gallagher to include about five per cent bass and 20 per cent channel catfish — might total $30,000 or more, another conservation division source said.

London Police Seek to Halt 'Squatter' Campaign.

LONDON — (AP) — London's "squatter" campaign took on the appearance of an endurance contest between police and hundreds of invaders of vacant London luxury flats today as the government drive to quell the communist-inspired movement gathered momentum after a slow start.

The situation quieted during the night after the nearest approach to violence in the five days old squatter invasion, when mounted police herded 2,000 squatter sympathizers off the street near one occupied building without injury to anyone.

The incident took place in front of Abbey Lodge in St. John's wood, where approximately 1,500 squatters have taken over unoccupied apartments which normally rent for 20 to 24 pounds ($80 to $96) per week.

CPA Moves to Speed Brick Production In Richland Area

Stewart Potts, regional labor representative of Civilian Production Administration, Washington, D. C. is in Mansfield this week to help recruit workers for Richland county's three brick plants and to investigate production problems at the plants.

Potts said the plants now have all the necessary machinery, and the primary production problem is manpower.

About 40 men are needed at the Richland Shale Brick company, the Mansfield Shale Brick, and the Ohio Shale Face Brick company.

Potts said he's found labor scarcer here than any place he's visited in the middlewest, due largely to the big building and industrial expansion program under way in the Mansfield area.

"We are here because bricks go into houses and housing is the top priority problem of the CPA today," Potts said.

The regional labor representative estimated that the three plants here could turn out approximately 3,000,000 bricks a month.

"It takes from 12,000 to 15,000 bricks to build the average brick constructed house, so you can see how vital it is to get men to put these plants into full production," he said.

"Men who are interested in becoming clay products workers can be assured of overtime. The CPA has estimated that it will take 10 years to put the nation's housing facilities back where they were in 1941."

It's the Day For Bad Luck At Its Worst

Today's the day you flick salt over your left shoulder, walk backwards through doors and carry your rabbit foot!

The old jinx of Friday the 13th supposedly lurks around the corner, ready to pounce upon the first unfortunate who walks under ladders, opens umbrellas indoors or breaks a mirror.

As superstition goes, today is the worst of the bad days.

Seemingly, the only brave persons today are those who were born under the fateful star. For instance, U. S. Senator James W. Huffman, celebrating his 52nd birthday, claims his fortune is best when his birthday occurs on Friday. He's seeking election to the Senate to which he was appointed last year.

The senator enlisted in World War I on the 13th, sailed for overseas on the 13th and entered his first battle on the 13th.

BROMFIELD AIDS WRITER'S GROUP

Association Combats Alleged Monopolistic Control.

Louis Bromfield joined with 50 other prominent writers today in organizing the American Writers' association to combat an alleged attempt to establish monopoly control over all American literary production.

The association launched a drive from its New York headquarters to enlist 300 other leading American authors in its fight against what is termed a plot to establish a "dictatorship" over all the nation's writers.

The association, in a statement, referred to the "American Authors' Authority," a group organized by Hollywood screen writers and others last July, as "inspired by communists."

The association includes such writers as Rupert Hughes, Katherine Brush, Clarence Budington Kelland and John Erskine.

The association said that Novelist James M. Cain had outlined the project in the organ of the Screen Writers' Guild in which he called for an "authority as the sole repository for all copyrights."

Under the proposal, literary materials would not be sold outright to publishers, producers and editors, but would be leased or licensed for specific periods.

DOUBLE HONORS—

The adventure of the first day at school for Johnny and Suzy and the reactions of the youngsters to their new environment is described graphically by Edwin A. Fensch, director of research in Mansfield schools, in the September issue of Hygeia magazine. Fensch, who directs school journalism at John Simpson junior high school, urges that parents prepare their children for school by giving them an idea of what they will encounter in their new surroundings. Fensch's article, which appears on page 668 of this month's issue, is entitled "Getting Them Off to School." Fensch won more national recognition this week when he was included in the new edition of "Who's Who in Education," which lists leading educators in the United States.

An Erie, Pa., man went to the Mansfield police headquarters last night and asked to be locked up. He was a bit "under the weather," officers said, so they told him to take a walk and sober up. The visitor wasn't satisfied. He said he wanted to be locked up, and became insistant. Police said if he didn't leave he'd be booked for intoxication. That was all right with him, he said, if it took that to get to jail. Police obliged. Contented, the visitor went into a cell and was soon sound asleep.

The generalissimo is expected to return to Nanking within several days.

COST SPIRAL THREATENS TO FORCE ACTION

Decontrol Board Preparing to Discuss Reimposition of OPA Controls.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Restoration of price ceilings on dairy products loomed today as the price decontrol board awaited the dairy industry's explanation of recent increases in butter and cheese prices.

The decontrol board meets next Wednesday to consider the reimposition of dairy controls. It has invited the industry, OPA and all other interested parties to submit their views in writing before that date.

Apparently alarmed at the jump in butter and cheese prices within the past three weeks, the board expects to study the evidence submitted by the industry and other groups to determine whether ceilings should be restored.

A spokesman said that the board would reveal within one or two days after its meeting whether it has decided that dairy products should be placed back under control.

In voting on Aug. 20 to let dairy products remain free of controls, the board warned that it would watch the items and would order recontrol in the event of any "unreasonable" price rise.

The board said Thursday night that butter prices have jumped nearly seven and a half cents a pound since that date and that cheddar cheese prices have gone up two and one-half cents a pound.

Whether these price rises will be considered "unreasonable" depends upon the board's views on explanations presented by the dairy industry. If the board finds that the price jumps are "unreasonable," it probably will order recontrol of dairy products.

OPA Watching.

Meanwhile, OPA continued to watch the dairy price situation. Price Administrator Paul Porter already has stated that OPA seeks the restoration of price controls on dairy products.

OPA took action today to boost the prices of facial tissues. The agency announced that facial tissues would go up eight per cent to offset higher labor and materials costs.

It explained that this boost to manufacturers would result in an increase of one cent for packages selling at two for 25 cents and two cents for each box priced at 25 cents.

OPA also reportedly is considering an increase in the price of linseed oil. An industry source said that the agency would raise linseed oil prices about two cents per pound to offset the recent increase in flaxseed prices.

Fire Hydrants Will Cry Need of Fire Care

Two-hundred fire hydrant "collars," carrying the slogan, "an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of water," will be placed in downtown Mansfield and on the city's arterial highways during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6 to 12.

Announcement of the publicity plan was made last night by W. G. Schultz, general chairman of the campaign, at a meeting of all chairmen and their committees in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room.

Floyd Dent, parade chairman, announced prizes of $25, $10 and $5 for first, second and third prizes for floats entered in the parade Oct. 12 at 7 p. m. Dent said seven to 10 floats were expected to compete.

The publicity committee will meet Sept. 19 at 8 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Lowell Bourns, chairman, announced.

Meetings will be held this year Saturday noon instead of Friday night as during the war years.

County Could Sell Courthouse Bell, But It Doesn't Want To

The bell in the tower of the county courthouse is not for sale.

That was the reaction of county commissioners to a letter from the makers of the bell. The letter contained a hint that the manufacturer would like to buy back the giant bell sold to the county in 1871.

Oddly enough, it was Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning who received the inquiry from the Meneely Bell company, of Troy, N. Y.

"Our records," Chester Meneely, president of the firm, wrote, "show that in 1871 you purchased a bell of 3,000 pounds pattern for your tower and we are wondering if this bell is still in service.

"Due to war-created scarcity, we are not permitted by our government to manufacture bells from new metals and have been securing others from churches that have been consolidated and abandoned.

"While this may not fit your case, you may know of someone who has a bellmetal bell for sale."

Wenning turned the letter over to the commissioners.

Said John W. Selby, commissioner: "That's an odd one. It'll take a great deal of thought."

The bell which rings out the hours from the courthouse tower was manufactured in 1871 by "Meneely and Kinberly, Founders" of Troy, N. Y.

As an afterthought, Meneely asked in a postscript, "If you are still using your bell, are the mountings in good condition?"

TYGER GRIDDERS SET FOR PREXIES

1946 Football Campaign Inaugurated Under Stadium Field 'Mazdas' Tonight.

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor.

The 1946 edition of the Mansfield Tyger grid machine goes on display for the first time tonight on the Stadium field greensward at 8 o'clock.

Marion Harding's greatly improved Presidents furnish the opposition for Coach Paul Snyder's gang of pigskin performers. The Tygers concluded four weeks of rugged practice sessions with a light workout yesterday and with few exceptions the Bengals are ready to spring from their lair with plenty of "get up and go."

Only two of Snyder's galaxy of 22 lettermen will miss the opener tonight. Tom Emerson, end and Tom Nixon, tackle have been sidelined by game legs.

With Trackman Ralph Majors spear-heading the attack, the Tygers swept by Marion in 1945 on the Presidents' gridiron, 37 to 0. Majors, a sure starter tonight, carrying the leather into pigskin territory three times much to the consternation of the Harding aggregation.

Reports from the Harding camp indicate that the Pesidents are a much better ball club this season but lack high-class reserve strength. Coach W. E. Thomas has 12 lettermen and eight will be in the starting lineup.

Lettermen Jim Coss, Dick Huddle, Don Zeisler and Dick Brown are available for halfback duty but Zeisler and Huddle are nursing leg injuries.

Sophomore Jack Bishop is expected to replace monogram winner Jerry Richie at fullback. A sore leg has been hampering the big line-buster but he will see some action.

Zeisler, a first-string tackle in '45, was moved to the backfield to give the Presidents more heft and punch. He shares the punting with veteran Jim Hill. Lettermen Jim Rae, Jim Coss and Jim Murphy are the Harding aetrial artists.

The Presidents boast one of their heaviest gridiron combines but will be outweighed in the forward wall by Snyder's group of line stalwarts.

Mansfield copped five of nine contests last season pre-game workouts have hearkened better things for the Tyger footballers. Snyder has two or three good men for every position and will use them all tonight.

Only one change is contemplated in the Bengal lineup. Big Dave Boals will take over the right-tackle spot from Bob Marth. Both are lettermen and Marth won all-Ohio honorable mention in 1944 before joining Uncle Sam's Marine Corps. He was in service 15 months.

Majors, Ollie Cline, Ross Frisbee and Kenny Horvath will handle the Tyger ground and passing wizardry at the kickoff with Bill McKee, letterman and track century ace, seeing a lot of action. McKee has been bothered by a sore leg.

Jim Sinerson and Al Henke, ends; Boals and Ray Beard, tackles; Dave Richards and Dick Gross, guards and Dave Wentz, center, complete the starting array.

Elsewhere in the Buckeye state, high schools are preparing for the greatest grid season in Ohio scholastic history. An estimated 550 teams begin their quest for football fame and glory today and tomorrow with some 2,000 games listed on the 11-week schedule.

Mansfield Tyger reserves stole the march on the area's pigskin combines by opening their grid calendar against the Bellville varsity this afternoon at 2 p. m. on the Bellville field.

Mansfied Madison's home opener tomorrow night with New London should draw one of the Rams' largest crowds. Coach Jeff DeHaven has 10 lettermen off the 1945 Ram outfit which won six of eight regular scheduled contests.

New London hung a 6 to 0 defeat on the Rams in the '45 opener and the Madison aggregation is primed for a bit of revenge tomorrow. The Rams are "up" physically and mentally for the clash.

The Shelby Whippets make their debut under Al Fendrick, former field executive for the Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout area, tonight under the lights at New Philadelphia. The Whippets have eleven veterans off the '45 squad. Shelby copped five games, lost three and tied one last season.

Coach Ed Rannow's Galion squad goes to Tiffin Calvert. McManus, a Galion letterman, will miss the game because of injuries sustained in practice.

Mt. Gilead and Crestline collide in a Mid-State league contest tonight under the former's new lights.

Ashland goes to Willard, Fredericktown plays at Loudonville and Bucyrus entertains Tiffin Columbian in other night contests.

* * *

MANSFIELD	Pos.	MARION
Al Henke	LE	Gene Andrews
Dave Boals	LT	Bob Ralston
Dave Richards	LG	Marion Nolfi
Dave Wentz	C	Doug Duerr
Dick Gross	RG	Charley Cline
Ray Beard	RT	Dick Huffman
Jim Sinerson	RE	Herb Phillips
Ross Frisbee	QB	Jim Rae
Ollie Cline	LH	Don Zeisler or Dick Brown

Nimrods Begin Bushytail War Saturday Morning At Daybreak

Reports from the state's game protectors and other field men of the Ohio division of conservation this week give promise of a better-than-average squirrel shooting season as oldtimers as well as a few new stump-sitters prepare for H-hour on the bushytails at daybreak Saturday, Sept. 14.

There'll be a slightly shorter season this year and the entire state comes under one open season. In 1941 Ohio squirrel hunters asked for and were granted a split season—that is the season opened in the southernmost counties a little earlier than the northern sector.

This provision served two purposes according to the plan. First it furnished a shorter season for the northern counties where the squirrel population experienced a decided slump and secondly it presumably gave the southern hunters a better chance at the squirrels before they moved out of many sections following the earlier nut harvest in the southern counties.

This year representatives at the game hearing held in June asked that the split season be cast aside, mostly because of the yearly confusion and hunting pressure caused in the counties bordering the zone dividing line through central Ohio.

Although the season is a bit shorter, those who depend on their "Saturdays-off" for the sport, will appreciate the fact that the season includes three Saturdays opening at daybreak Saturday, September 14, and continuing through Saturday the 28th.

The daily bag limit will be 4, and the possession limit 4 for both the grey and fox squirrel; there is no bag limit or closed season on the little red or pine squirrel. For the sake of eliminating possible confusion in identification, the red squirrel is very small and is dark red in color with a somewhat yellow or white belly.

Ice cream was invented in Italy in the 14th century.

Sunkel Hurls No-Hitter

St. Paul was back in the running for the American association playoff title today, and the Saints were cheering the no-hit, no-run pitching performance of Tom Sunkel, veteran lefthander, against Louisville. The no-hitter was believed the first ever pitched in the history of the league's post-season series.

Sunkel's perfect pitching, and some timely hitting by the Saints accounted for a 3 to 0 victory over the pennant winning Colonels last night.

In the other section of the semi-finals, Indianapolis defeated Minneapolis, 9 to 3, for a lead of two games to one.

200 Parents, Players Enjoy Annual Dinner

Two hundred people attended the Parent-Athlete banquet sponsored by the Tyger club last night at John Simpson junior high school cafeteria.

This annual affair brings together all the parents of the team and serves to create a better understanding among the school officials and players.

Coach Paul Snyder introduced Harold Arlin, president of the Mansfield Tygers' athletic board, who spoke on the high cost of the new stadium and the different efforts that have been made to keep the expense to a minimum.

Glenn G. Rohleder, principal of Senior high school, discussed academic rules of the school and stated that the parents were an important factor in the boys' training.

D. A. Weir and Robert Crawford, team physicians, were introduced and Dr. Weir then gave a few helpful hints on the player dieting.

Snyder commented on the Tyger ball club which faces its toughest schedule in years.

One of the biggest triumphs of understatement ever used in advertising has recently appeared in Sohio Motor Oil ads. We hasten to correct that error.

We have just received a telegram from one of the world's foremost Research Foundations—and it makes our advertising men blush! You have been reading in the papers and hearing on the radio that New Sohio Motor Oil with Pentosul had a 100%-increased Factor of Safety. That, it turns out, was quite an *under*statement!

The new oil was given to one of the country's greatest endowed, non-profit research foundations* for complete, grueling engine tests. They wired the results today . . .

Instead of having a 100%-increased Factor of Safety, New Sohio Motor Oil with Pentosul already shows a 725%-increased Factor of Safety . . . and the engine is still running.

This is evidence that in discovering Pentosul, Sohio's Research Laboratories have come up with one of the really important advances made in engine lubrication.

You'll get the full story in this paper as soon as the Foundation mails us their complete report on the tests. In the meantime we wanted to correct immediately one of the biggest advertising understatements of all time! Our face is red—but what a motor oil you're getting for only 25¢ a quart! (plus taxes)

PILES RE NEVER "MILD"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Knielson Wins Mat Feature

Stocky Kneilson, the Tennessee "ham" actor, copped the final match of the weekly "grunt and groan" exhibition at the Armory last night.

Referee Frank Grazl, who was slightly "mixed-up" all night, gave Kneilson quite an assist in the third fall. Davey Reynolds, usually a mild-mannered gent, got a bit incensed with Knielson's rough tactics and presented Stocky with a few right hand wallops.

Grazl pulled Reynolds off and Knielson punched the "people's cherce" while Reynolds was being held by the referee. He then jumped on to win the deciding fall with a body press in 4 minutes.

Knielson copped the first fall in 18 minutes and Reynolds evened the count in 4 minutes.

June Byers and Juanita Banks experimented with various and sundry methods of hair-pulling in the opener with the former being the more proficient. Byers has been scheduled against Elvira Snodgrass in the feature match of next week's show at Ashland road wrestling emporium.

Juanita copped the first fall in 10 minutes with an airplane spin and press. Byers took the second fall with a press in eight minutes, and won the clincher with a series of "monkey" flips and a body roll. Time was four minutes.

Breaks Go Against Richmond Hurler

The "breaks" of the game dealt roughly with Pitcher Fred Geraci of Richmond at Zanesville Thursday night. He gave up only four hits, but lost an Ohio State league play-off duel 2-0 to Jim Rodeghiero who was nicked for an even dozen safe blows.

In the other play-off series Springfield lost at Newark 13-1. Geraci fanned 10 Zanesville Dodgers—six more strikeouts than Rodeghiero chalked up.

Geiger Stops Stars With Two-Hitter

Behind the stellar pitching of Aid Geiger, who allowed only two hits, the Old Timers went one-up on the All Stars in their challenge softball series, by winning 3 to 0, last night on the Johns park diamond.

Geiger struck out five men while Bob Regula found it rough going in giving up seven hits and only whiffing two of the older men.

The best three-out-of-five series gets underway again next Tuesday night at Liberty park when the All Stars will try to even the score.

Darkness halted the series opener last Tuesday with the score tied 5 to 5.

Vets Favored In Semi-Finals

SPRINGFIELD, N. J.—(U.P.)—Two veteran campaigners met a pair of unknowns in the 36-hole semi-finals of the U. S. amateur golf championship today and the odds all were with Smiley Quick of Inglewood, Calif., and Ted Bishop of Dedham, Mass., who have been around a long time.

Quick, national public links champion and one of the favorites from the start, teed off against 34-year-old Fred Kammer of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., Detroit's city champion.

Back in the semi-finals for the second straight time, Bishop hooked up with Bob Willits of Kansas City, a complete unknown in tournament golf although he led the nation in sectional qualifying trials with 137.

Cleveland Browns Invade Chicago

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago Rockets open their All-America conference season tonight against the Cleveland Browns in Soldier Field. A crowd of more than 50,000 which would be the largest attendance at a pro grid league game in Chicago, was expected.

Because of a superior line, Cleveland was installed as pre-game favorite. The Browns won their opening league game, defeating Miami. The Rockets, in exhibition games, lost to the San Francisco Dons, and tied the Brooklyn Dodgers.

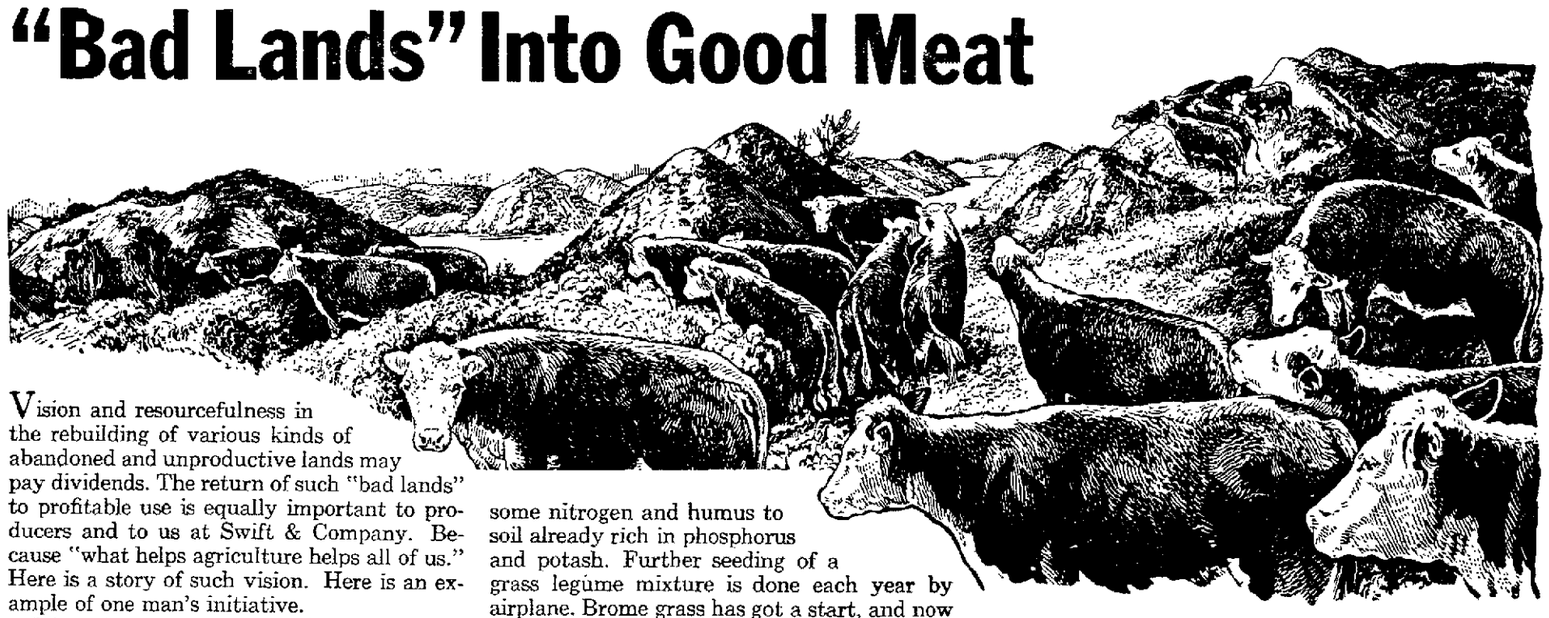
"Bad Lands" Into Good Meat



Vision and resourcefulness in the rebuilding of various kinds of abandoned and unproductive lands may pay dividends. The return of such "bad lands" to profitable use is equally important to producers and to us at Swift & Company. Because "what helps agriculture helps all of us." Here is a story of such vision. Here is an example of one man's initiative.

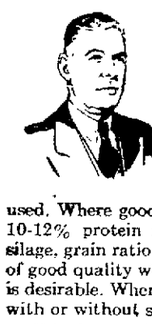
Like a farm torn up by a giant's plow, 600 acres of Illinois strip mine land stood bare. It was apparently worthless. That was in 1938. Today those once-bare ridges are knee-deep in grass and clover. Each rugged acre makes more than enough grass for one steer. And it's getting better each year.

The year after the land was mined for coal, a few volunteer sweet clover plants took root. They flourished in the lime-rich soil. Byron Somers of Canton, Illinois, who farmed adjacent land, noticed them. He bought the "bad land" for $5 an acre. With a hand seeder, he walked the ridges and sowed sweet clover. The next year he had a good stand. This added some nitrogen and humus to soil already rich in phosphorus and potash. Further seeding of a grass legume mixture is done each year by airplane. Brome grass has got a start, and now his pastures will be even more productive. In addition to grass, plenty of drinking water for the cattle is held in the little valleys.

Since being returned to usefulness, this land has averaged a net profit of $7 an acre each year. Similar Illinois land has recently sold for $25 an acre.

This is only one example. Every state has unproductive lands. Many other men have returned them to use—and profited. Huge areas still offer a challenge and an opportunity to American producers everywhere. Your opportunity, too, may be indicated by such a little thing as sweet clover growing on abandoned land.

It's extra care that cuts shipping fever losses among feeder cattle. Vaccination also will produce a measure of immunity. After cattle reach the feed lots, provide them with shelter from cold winds and rain. Give them light, bulky feeds such as whole oats and roughage. Cattle fall easy prey to shipping fever when they are run down, due to fatigue, exposure, or irregular feeding. If animals do fall sick, isolate them promptly and call a veterinarian.



FEED SUPPLY AND MAXIMUM DAIRY PRODUCTION

by E. A. Gannon
Extension Dairyman
Purdue University

More and cheaper milk will be produced by many herds if and when better feeding systems are used. Where good quality legume hay is fed, grain ration averaging 10-12% protein is sufficient. With good quality legume hay and silage, grain ration should consist of 12-14% protein. With mixed hay of good quality with or without silage, grain ration of 12-16% protein is desirable. Where corn fodder, stover or straw is the main roughage, with or without silage, an 18-20% protein grain ration is required.

Weighing of silage occasionally will determine if it is being overfed at the expense of roughage. Normally, one pound of hay and three pounds of silage per 100 pounds of live weight is recommended. In the case of fresh cows, during the first three or four weeks of lactation, silage may be reduced to 1½ pounds per 100 pounds of live weight and hay increased proportionately. Grain should be coarse ground and mixed with ground soybean supplement or 32-34% commercial feeds, to obtain desired percentages of protein, based on type and quality of roughage.

Cows should be fed according to daily production—for high-testing breeds, feed one pound of grain for 3-4 pounds of milk. For low-testing breeds, feed one pound of grain for 5-6 pounds of milk.

OUR CITY COUSIN

Geography of Meat Production and Consumption

The United States by rail is approximately 3,000 miles from East to West. It is about 2,000 miles from North to South. Not all of its 1,934,326,280 acres produce agricultural products. Neither do all of its square miles have the same number of people. The western part, including the Corn Belt, is the great food producing area. The East is the section in which most of the people live.

Approximately two-thirds of the livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River. Approximately two-thirds of the people live east of it. More specifically, about one-third of the people live in the area from Pennsylvania northeast into New England. Thus there is a great distance between the producers of livestock and the consumers of meats. This makes it necessary to have national concerns like Swift & Company in the slaughtering of livestock, processing, handling and selling of meats. The products handled by meat packers average to move more than one thousand miles from producer to consumer.

You BET There's Competition!

Recently I spoke to a meeting of livestock producers. When I had finished talking, the chairman asked if any persons in the audience wanted to ask questions. Immediately one livestock man stood up. "Is there any competition in the buying of our livestock?" he asked. Naturally, my answer was, "Yes." I went on from there to an explanation . . .

One of the best evidences of competition is found in United States Government figures. They show that there are more than 3,500 meat packers in the United States. Also there are 22,500 other commercial slaughterers of livestock. Surely this means much competition. Of course, Swift & Company does not come in competition with every one of these 26,000 slaughterers at every point at which it buys livestock. However, there is no place in the United States but what Swift & Company does come in competition in the buying of livestock with one or more of the 26,000 slaughterers.

26,000 slaughterers compete for livestock

Here's another fact about competition. At practically all markets in the country there are order buyers. During a year they buy for up to hundreds of meat packers. No individual buys for several hundred on any one day. But when the meat packers whom they represent need livestock, these order buyers are out competing with Swift & Company and every other buyer in the market.

He buys for plants in many parts of the country

The foregoing are just two examples of the many to be found indicating the ever present competition in our business.

Brewster Voices Objection to 'One Man Show.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Brewster (R-Me) served fresh notice today that the senate war investigating committee must not operate any "one man show" such as he contends Chairman Mead (D-NY) has been conducting.

Simultaneously, Brewster told a reporter he will demand that a committee investigator be sent as quickly as possible to the American occupation zone of Germany.

It was the issue of a delay in investigating American military government in Germany that prompted Brewster to aim his critical blast at Mead yesterday.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM—In memory of our loved one, Capt. Robert Lee Ruckman, who was killed in action over Museberg, Germany, on Sept. 13th, 1944, two years ago today.

When the shades of night are falling
And we are sitting here alone,
Into our hearts there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
We did not know the pain you had
Or hear your final sigh.
We only know you passed away
Without a last goodby.
We cannot forget your smiling face
When you answered your country's call.
You had kind words for everyone
And died beloved by all.

Mrs. Patricia Ann Ruckman
And Son, Thomas Lee.

VAST CHANGES UNDER WAY IN SOVIET UNION

"unconfirmed reports" had been received of the transfer of Marshal Georgi Zhukov, chief of Soviet ground forces and outstanding Soviet war hero, to the post of commandant of the Odessa military garrison.

A day later the United Press obtained confirmation of Zhukov's transfer. No news of the shift ever has been published in the Russian press nor has there been any official Soviet announcement.

Zhukov's post as ground force commander was filled by Marshal Ivan S. Koniev.

A second Soviet notable to lose his position was Maxim Litvinov, deputy minister of foreign affairs. Announcement that the 70-year-old diplomat, widely known as a friend of the west, had been "relieved of his duties" was made on Aug. 23. On the same day P. V. Smirnov, chief of the meat and milk production ministry, was removed.

The campaign for better discipline—"iron discipline" as it is called in leaflets, newspaper editorials and wall posters—has been particularly pronounced in the Red army.

Random selections from the Soviet press show how the campaign has penetrated into almost every nook and cranny of Soviet life.

Hardly anything has been too trivial or too imposing to escape attention in this recrudescence of what is called in the bolshevik argot "Soviet self-criticism."

HORSE SHOW'S PROFIT TO AID FIRE FIGHTERS

Club Will Give Share From Sunday Event to Buy New Equipment.

TIRO—The Tiro Business club will place all profits it may receive as the club's share from the Tiro Horse show, to be held Sunday at the Weldon Nye farm, in a fund to be made available for purchase of new fire equipment in Tiro, club officials said today.

The action was taken by the club in order to help secure better equipment for combatting fires. All net receipts will be split with the Buckeye Rangers, co-sponsors of the show.

Reports today indicated that several hundred show horses from many communities in the state will be entered in the 16 classes of competition. Cash prizes totalling $500 and trophies and ribbons will be awarded winners, show spokesmen said.

When the big parade of all entries is held at the start of the show a number of top rank horses will strut their stuff before the fans. It is expected that the horses entered will include a good sized collection of albino horses representing the newest fad in the horse show field.

R. F. Carnahan, well-known Ashland horseman, indicated he will have his four valuable albinos, King, Queen, Beth and Lady entered. Roe Esterline, of Mansfield, is expected to have Buddy and Ruth, both albinos, and Alma Shumaker, of Galion, will enter her albino pair, Cameo Eagle and Cameo's White Knight.

Another outstanding horse will be Colonel Sappho, the famous Palimino, of Hendricks, and Lambeth, Columbus. Sappho is a stallion purchased in Texas and the owner has refused an offer of $3,000 for him.

Mrs. Lucille Strauck, of Galion, will enter her horse, My Silver Charm, winner of first place in the pleasure class at the recent Columbus show.

The Crawford County Children's home will enter five youngsters under the direction of Marvin Adams, superintendent of the home They will ride two horses and three ponies. One of the riders will be the colored boy, Carl Dalton, who is a favorite with fans. Children at the county home are ardent fans and may be brought to the show in the home bus.

Donald Hocker will ride his pinto, Miss Chief, and Virginia Payne will ride Dare Beware. These two horses were ridden by Alma Shumaker and Virginia Payne on a 12,000-mile trip with Gene Autry.

Other horses are to be entered by owners from Mt. Gilead, Bucyrus, Marion, Elyria, Wooster, Mansfield, Chesterville, New London, and other cities. The show is open to all.

'FEUDIN' DAYS' TOPIC OF NEW FICTION WORK

Fall Books Begin to Arrive at Library; They'll Be Ready Monday.

The summer lull in the publishing business is about over and some of the new fall books are beginning to arrive at the Mansfield Public library. Among the new ones which will be available Monday is THEIR ANCIENT GRUDGE, by Harry Harrison Kroll.

It's the story of the Hatfield-McCoy feud told from the viewpoint of six women. Each book bears the name of the woman who is its chief character. In this mountain society, women played a subordinate and pathetic role. From their perspective the author has shown poignantly the folly and heartbreak in the passions of their men. The men had all the thrill of action and adventure.

* * *

MISTER ROBERTS, by Thomas Heggen, is the story of a cargo ship, the U.S.S. Reluctant. She never sees action, but her agonizingly uneventful months in the backwashes of the Pacific form the background for this authentic moving and often humorous novel. Lt. Roberts, typical of the idealistic reservist, does his quiet job, is welcomed in every officer's stateroom, is worshipped by the crew—is nonetheless a fighter because his adversaries are apathy, tedium and boredom.

THE STREET, by Ann Petry, is the story of Lutie Johnson's struggle to make a clean and suitable home for her nine-year-old son Bub amid the filth and violence of Harlem. That Lutie is young and lovely makes her struggle the more difficult.

Other fiction:

THE WORLD IN HIS ARMS, Beach; SHOOT IF YOU MUST, Powell; THE DANCING DETECTIVE, Woolrich; OVER AT THE CROWLEYS', Norris; THE GREAT PROMISE, Houston.

* * *

THE DISCOVERY OF INDIA, by Jawaharlal Nehru, comes at a time when an understanding of India is an urgent need. In discovering India for himself, Nehru drew for others a history of his country from prehistoric times. In the course of the centuries he comes upon every phase of Indian life: religion, philosophy, the caste system, art, conquest, population problems and modern politics. As an active participant in India's long fight for independence his views are of special importance.

MAN, by George R. Stewart, is a thoroughly readable autobiography in which the author tears down some well-established shibboleths sacred to a large number of archaeologists, anthropologists, and historians. In about 300 pages he allows man to tell his own story from the days before recorded history—before fire and the wheel and the bow and arrow—to the war weary human of today.

* * *

LAST OF THE BAD MEN, by Jay Monoghan, is the story of Tom Horn who worked for the cattle barons, discouraging homesteaders and who died in Cheyenune a little more than 40 years ago. How many men he killed will never be known, but there was one murder too many and even the callous frontier was outraged. Horn's expensive trial and his break for freedom make the climax of this colorful book.

Other Non-fiction:

HOME OWNERSHIP, Dean; CASABLANCA TO KATYN, Root; WRITING FICTION, Derleith; IMPRESARIO, Hurok; THE GREAT DIVORCE, Lewis; THE RIVER JORDAN, Glueck; OSCAR WILDE, Pearson; FOUNDATIONS FOR RECONSTRUCTION, Trueblood; DISCERNING THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES, Niebuhr.

STORE OFFERS NEW CREDIT PLAN

Kobacker's Sets Up Coupon System For Patrons.

Merchandise coupons, to be spent like money and obtainable without a deposit, are being offered under a new purchasing plan set up by Kobacker's.

Designed as a streamlined credit system, the new plan opens the way for persons who can provide satisfactory identification to obtain up to $50 worth of merchandise coupons to be used as cash at Kobacker's.

The purchase coupons are paid for on the installment plan with up to five months to pay. Government regulations, however, require that on individual items of merchandise costing over $6, one-third of the cost price must be paid in cash.

A new department of accounts, under the management of Paul L. White, has been established on the third floor of the store. Here trained personnel will give confidential interviews to applicants for merchandise coupons.

The merchandise coupon system marks a departure from Kobacker's former cash and carry policy. W. L. Faulkner, manager of the store, said that the new plan is "designed to let customers buy at cash prices and at the same time take a little extra time to pay the bill."

New Hours Set For Rent Office

New "open-to-the public" office hours went in effect today at the area rent control office, 58½ North Main street. George Blecker, director said the office will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

He said the change in hours was adopted to give office personnel a period each day to catch up with the backlog of work without interruption.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1946

The days are actually getting shorter now—months and years only seem to.

The New York Times heads an editorial, "The People Must Eat"—but not if the striking truck drivers in that city have anything to say about it.

One scientist believes that within ten years it will be possible to bombard the moon with pieces of iron the size of a man's fist—but what will be the good of that?

Choosing Site for New Public School

DECISION on the site for a new public school building is among the most difficult tasks of school authorities, for the reason that unanimity of opinion is always lacking as to relative desirability of various available sites.

Such a situation developed to a highly controversial extent a quarter of a century ago when a location for the present Senior high school was being considered and widely discussed. Something of the same sort came along later when the problem was to decide on locations for two Junior high schools—now John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed.

Present interest centers in the recently announced selection of a grade school site in the northeastern part of the city as replacement for the ancient Newman street school building.

Various surveys have been made of the area to be served, with a view to choosing a location deemed best for present and future needs, and the Central avenue site, which is about three blocks east of Newman school, impressed board of education members as being most advantageous in matters of location and availability of needed land at moderate cost.

Recommendation made in a survey conducted in 1944 by the bureau of educational research of Ohio State university was that "a new 14-room building be constructed to replace Newman school on its present site," and it is now being contended by some of the residents of that area that this was their understanding of intentions, while others have favored purchase of a new site—as is being planned.

Use of the present site, of course, would require razing the old building and some provision for accommodation of pupils during the period needed to construct and equip a new building—which might present a serious problem.

It is quite reasonable, however, that full consideration should be given the views of people most directly concerned—residents of the district—and that environment be given an important place in the choice of a school location.

Venturing Into Business Career

IN AN ADDRESS before the American Retail Federation, Commander Ralph A. Sentman, national director of veterans' affairs, stressed the importance of retailer-veteran activities whereby experienced merchants counsel returned soldiers in the conduct of retail business.

A sample survey made some time ago indicated that more than 500,000 veterans planned to establish their own businesses. A very large percentage of these, of course, were interested in retail trade in one field or another. In a normal year, two out of three new enterprises fail and only one out of five live more than ten years.

As Commander Sentman said, "Should these ratios hold true in this large group of veterans establishing new businesses, most certainly the economic reaction to such identified failures would be tragic."

Many and perhaps most of the veterans who wish to establish retail stores are without adequate experience. They know relatively little of the pitfalls that lie ahead.

Retailer-veteran conferences are designed to open the prospective store operator's eyes to the problems that he must face. Commander Sentman offers the opinion that these activities should be extended whenever possible.

Handle That Gun Carefully!

APPROACH of the hunting season gives timeliness to the warning that this constitutes another form of seasonal danger which should not be disregarded.

Reports of firearm accidents will again come from all parts of the state—with little likelihood that this area will escape providing one or more of the distressing occurrences.

As heretofore, it will be lack of common caution while handling a loaded shotgun, rifle or pistol which will be the cause of death or serious injury to some member of a hunting party which started out for a day of outdoor sport.

According to the Ohio division of conservation, stories of gun-cleaning and hunting preparation accidents are already pouring in, and an old rule is repeated: "Treat every gun as a loaded gun, and don't point a gun at anything you do not wish to kill."

Lengthening Baseball Schedule

IF CROWDS come out to see ball games, more crowds will come out to see more games. This reasoning apparently actuates the baseball magnates in lengthening next year's schedule to 168 games. Now each club is supposed to play 22 games with each other club; in 1947 it will be 24.

There is nothing sacred about the number 154. A generation or more ago when the National League was the only major organization and had 12 clubs, its schedule called for 132 games. The Pacific Coast League takes advantage of the milder climate to have 175 games. Years ago the figure was over 200, and the season ran from April 7 to October 18.

Unfortunately in the American and National League cities it is apt to be freezingly cold and rainy in April, and cold, with or without rain, in October. By October baseball has run a long time, and sportsmen's interests turn to football. The club owners may find that lengthening the schedule was not such a good idea after all.

It is John Cathbridge, in the Wall Street Journal, who puts it in rhyming form: "Within my heart I've reserved a place for the girl who doesn't blow smoke in my face."

One parental counsellor advises: "Never raise your voice to your children"—but otherwise how are they to hear above the clatter of the radio?

Word comes that Rhode Island hasn't had a case of smallpox since 1928—that state being of a size that simplifies the process of vaccination.

It is said that German mental hospitals are filled with people who think they are someone else—and it may be found that they are.

A 12-year-old Kansas City boy has just beaten par over a tough golf course—which leaves him little to look forward to.

Stock Market Break Destroyed Another Theory of New Dealers

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE stock market break has already turned a bright light on a basic fallacy in New Deal economics. The shattered pillar under the New Deal house of magic is the idea that modern industry has no need for outside savings.

And no smearing or recrimination, such as Congressman Sabath's charge that the break was caused by Republican fat cats, can restore this ruin. It is gone and gone forever.

American industry is, said the dominant economic wizards of the New Deal, mature. It produces its own capital. It doesn't need to borrow. It has a sufficiency within itself. Candidate Roosevelt himself set the pattern in 1932 at San Francisco, when he said, "Our industrial plant is built; the problem just now is whether under existing conditions it is not overbuilt."

One of the most pretentious of all the aforesaid wizards supplied that sentence. Its echo rang down the whole corridor of Roosevelt rule, until the war required an expansion of the alleged overbuilt plant at a cost of $20 billion or more.

The learned boys who made the record of the temporary national economic committee in 1938-41 filled volumes with elaborate rationalizations of the mature economy fallacy. It is embalmed in 37 columes, 17,000 pages, 3,300 exhibits and 43 monographs. It cost $1,070,000 to make that record.

One factor is clear in the present market decline. Industry, which was supposed to supply its own capital, and specific industries named over and over by New Dealers as self-sufficient have tried to get capital and have failed.

There was a great to-do by New Deal economists about such giants as General Motors and Westinghouse. Such companies, they said, would never have to look outside for money.

As late as November, 1945, Ganson Purcell, then chairman of the SEC, said that big companies would not need much outside financing. But General Motors at the end of 1944 had a working capital of $903.4 million. At the end of June this year, it had $552.2 million. It had to go into the new money market.

Westinghouse recently announced a $30-million offering of stock. Since the break, it has postponed this offering. Columbia Gas was to receive bids on an offering of $97.5 million in debentures. This has been reduced to $20 million.

The fact now appears, therefore, that industry, especially the big companies, do need outside money. This proves an expanding economy which New Dealers have denied.

Failure of the public to buy new offerings opens another issue, long subject to the contempt of New Deal politicians and economists. That is the New Deal attitude toward investor confidence in our economy. Mr. Roosevelt himself used to deride any attempts to identify such an intangible. But this element of confidence is a very real and decisive element in sustaining prosperity.

It is now quite apparent that it does not exist among those whose savings are remaining in money and government bonds. And these savings are very great. The reasons for this are many, but, in the main, they root in lack of a firm belief in government policies. We now know that savings are essential to business expansion.

And we now know that the way to put that money to work is to allow confident expectations that working money can get decent wages.

If opponents of the economic minds who still dominate the administration fail to take advantage of present revelations of the fallacy of New Deal economics, the future is without hope.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Sept. 13, 1926.

"Congestion" was reported at all grade school buildings on opening day of public schools.

Shelby bugle and drum corps won state championship for third successive year at American Legion state convention.

"Friendship night," of employed girls, was announced as new feature at YWCA.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. McGinty, 308 Bowman street.

Farewell party was given at First Chrisitan church for Rev. Craig W. Schwartz and family.

Maurice Goss, of Mansfield, was severely burned by gasoline explosion in garage in which he was employed in Ashland.

Proprietors of soft drink establishments were ordered to remove screens that obstructed view of interior.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Francis I, husband of Maria Theresa, became emperor of the Holy Roman empire on September 13, 1745.

Dave Boone Says:

TO MY way of thinking, the most alarming thing in the strike situation is the contempt for government and for the edicts of elected officials. Democracy and the American way are founded on respect for authority, majority rule and concern for the public welfare.

* * *

When these are lightly scuttled the America of the past is scuttled and we get tough going for everybody.

* * *

In these days of rows, disorders and defiances, anybody devoting a life to helping folks instead of adding to their troubles stands out. Such a person was Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, who died the other day. She founded the seeing eye dog organization, which brought new hope to the blind.

* * *

You had to dig deep inside the papers to find out about her—there was so much news about situations that made it hard for food and medicines to get through to people in need of 'em.

Daily Bible Thought

Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people. Prov. 14:34.

Farmer's Diary: "Motor Trip."

WE TOOK a vacation trip, my wife and I, in our old car with the speedometer that stopped at 250,000 miles . . . and a part of a bumper missing. Not but what it's a good car yet—any car that can keep on taking it like that must be a good one!

All along the way to Toledo, roadside stands were doing business. Fruit is scarce in our county, but up along the lake near Sandusky and farther south near Clyde, farmers had peaches, melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, corn, peppers, beets, potatoes, onions, squashes, apples . . . enough to make a varied display.

The orchards, though, with few exceptions looked parched and dried. Those that had been mulched were greener than the others. Cornfields had cracks one to two inches wide in the gumbo soil. Alfalfa, in process of being cut green and loaded immediately, was very short. Sugar beets were not making a profitable showing, owing to the dry weather.

I bought a mammoth Bender's Surprise cantalope from a Polish farmer and his wife whose pleasant manners and quaint accent added charm to their small outlay. On their five acres they had built their own home—he was a carpenter—and they were content and proud of their sugar beets, corn, melons and long strawberry rows.

Being hard put for sweetening, we inquired for honey, but people only smiled. Bees everywhere have had a hard summer . . . even as our own. Whenever we did find a Honey sign, it wore a placard, "Sold Out."

But talking to bee men is interesting . . . up in Gibsonburg we visited with the most typical justice of the peace I think I ever met. Bee-keeping was his hobby—and we learned at last that he had been formerly a resident of our own home village.

We followed linoleum signs to Green Springs. The "green" spring was there, and we saw and smelled it, following in the steps of a pair of honeymooners. We had fun, but the linoleum store was run by the familiar, "Oso Sorry!" (For the past two years we have tried to buy a floor covering.)

It was our first motor trip since the war . . . we spent the night at Whitehouse, and came back next day. Our children did fine without us.

An AFL Imitation of PAC Planned By John L. Lewis, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—For years the American Federation of Labor has traditionally refrained from political entanglements. It has supported neither the Democratic nor the Republican party in a national election, but has backed individual candidates on the basis of their labor records.

Astute Sam Gompers pioneered this policy. He always contended that the Federation's business was "trade unionism, not politics," and warned against alignments with either major political party.

"We will support our friends and defeat our enemies," he used to say.

Gompers' non-political policy has been in effect for half a century, but the next AFL convention, opening in Chicago on October 7, may see its end. A move is secretly afoot in AFL top councils to set up a political unit similar to the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Chief promoter of the scheme is the gentleman who contributed half a million of miners' money to elect FDR and who switched to Wendell Willkie in 1940—John L. Lewis.

AFL insiders profess not to know exactly what Lewis is after. But there is more than a suspicion that he is trying to build a political machine to promote himself for a place on the GOP 1948 presidential ticket. In this connection, Roosevelt friends say that is was because FDR wouldn't make Lewis his vice-presidential running mate that John L. jumped to the GOP.

Top Dog Lewis.

Lewis has seriously discussed his plan with several AFL big shots, including President Bill Green, and intends to place it before the Chicago convention. If his political committee is approved—and there is every indication it will be—John L. will then be top dog of American labor.

Lewis is counting on several influential executive council members to support him, among them Big Bill Hutcheson, boss of the carpenters, who once engaged in a fist fight with Lewis at an AFL convention, and George Harrison, president of the railway clerks.

The project may not be given a political name, but its mission will be purely and simply that—namely, to counteract and compete with the CIO's PAC.

Though there will be very little time after the AFL convention, Lewis has high hopes of swinging into action before the November elections.

Those in on the scheme are supposed to keep quiet for the time being, but Bill Green may have tipped the play in recent speeches when he stressed the necessity of the AFL's taking an active part in the next elections.

Who Gets Sugar Blame.

Housewives are quite justified in being irate over the OPA's sugar allotment for canning this year, but they are placing the blame on the wrong party.

Actually it is not OPA but congress which should get the blame.

What happened was that last year OPA gave out special sugar coupons to housewives who put up fruits and preserves. Those who didn't do any canning got no extra ration.

This year, the OPA merely validated two extra sugar stamps in every ration book, which meant a windfall for families that don't can. It also meant that housewives who do can were short on sugar.

The OPA knew in advance that this was not going to work out well, but they were up against the fact that congress had slashed its funds to ribbons, forcing the firing of personnel who handled last year's sugar for canning.

So if you are indignant over the scarcity of sugar for canning, put the blame where it belongs—on the doorstep of GOP Senators Taft of Ohio, Wherry and Butler of Nebraska; Congressman Hartley of New Jersey and other Republicans who led the drive to sabotage OPA.

Shortage Will Conlue.

Incidentally, there just isn't going to be any improvement in the sugar situation for another six months, possibly longer. It will be at least April before sugar ration cards can be thrown away.

Chief reason is it takes more than a year to rebuild sugar production in the war-ravaged Philippines, Java, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sumatra. Also labor and farm implements are still tight. Also U. S. officials got too geenrous with sugar lastyear and let the American public eat into our stockpile.

Finally, growers claim that the government should have raised grower subsidies last year. Because subsidies were low, sugar-beet farmers raised beans and potatoes instead—crops which were more profitable and which U. S. food authorities considered more essential anyway.

Here's More About Amputee Activities.

CLEVELAND — For individuals who may have listened to or read the well-meant but too often stupid preachings about how to treat the wounded veteran on his return home, there is an organization in Cleveland which is refreshing both by name and by origin.

Its name is "Possibilities Unlimited, Inc." Just that. No apologies whatever for its membership, no behind-the-hand polite explanation that they're all amputees.

As a matter of fact, you might almost call it an arrogant outfit, because it believes—and has proved—that its membership can do just about any job, whether it be sports or earning a livelihood, approximately as well as people who have all their limbs intact.

As far as that's concerned, most of them become such specialists that they make monkeys out of ordinary humans in competition.

Now as to its origin. It goes back 25 years when a couple of 16-year-old kids who, in those days, didn't know one another, had a couple of accidents. Young George Kruger lost his right arm. The girl Marie—now Mrs. Marie Stevens—lost a leg. Both got artificial limbs and today George is one of Cleveland's most prominent sales executives while Mrs. Stevens is a kell-known (especially for her hats which are the envy of local women) Cleveland housewife.

Along in 1944, veterans of the war were coming home without arms and without legs. George Kruger read a lot of these sympathy articles which well-meaning people were writing, and listened to a lot of speeches which well-meaning people were making.

But he knew from experience that what these guys wanted was not hero worship nor sad-eyed sympathy but to get back as quickly as possible to a normal life. Also he knew from experience it could be done.

So he scouted northern Ohio for men who had lost legs and arms years ago, during the last war or in civilian accidents. Together, in order to provide comparison for the returning vets, they formed "Possibilities Unlimited, Inc.," and invited the vets to join.

Mrs. Stevens was one of the first of the already-amputated joiners who wanted to help out and has been an enthusiastic worker since. The organization itself is currently carried on by contributions from various civic groups and individuals in the greater Cleveland area—but it already had money-making plans in progress which will make it self-supporting before the end of the year.

It does any number of things . . . finds jobs for members . . . organizes sports activities and events . . . plans parties, various kinds of entertainment . . . tests new artificial limbs which come on the market and arranges for their improvement with detailed, personal reports.

Employers who have hired amputees are asking for more. In their effort to overcome their lack of this or that limb, amputees concentrate so intensely on their tasks that they soon outstrip the average worker in efficiency.

They go about their daily business of being the best lawyers, machinists, salesmen, bank tellers, golfers, bowlers, repairmen in their personal circles.

Also their wives, mothers or sisters get into the organization through a recently-established auxiliary which makes it a family party—and eliminates any thought of sickening sympathy at home. Their folks can't attend one of their get-togethers and still feel sorry for the guys.

Thanks to a few far-sighted former amputees in this area, they feel they need take a backseat to no one and, looking into the future, they figure their possibilities are—that's right—UNLIMITED!

Re-Statement of American Ideals Needed.

WASHINGTON — There is something ironic in the spectacle of American navy planes spelling out "FDR" in the skies over Greece—just after restoration of the monarchy under King George II.

Can that, in any sense, represent the ideals of Franklin D. Roosevelt, or the things for which we fought?

What has happened in Greece somehow seems symbolic of a course of events in which we have become inextricably involved all over the world by the stumbling diplomatic maneuverings of the past year.

Or so it seems to a layman when he backs off and takes a look.

A pattern emerges from the Greek drama. The Greek people voted their king back. It was their choice. But they had little choice. It was either to become a stepchild of England under a king, twice exiled, or the foster-child of Russia. They took the king.

And so our planes, in a strange sort of gesture, throw the initials "FDR" across the skies.

But is it a victory for us and our war aims and ideals as enunciated by Franklin D. Roosevelt, designed to establish real democracy in Europe?

Isn't it that we have just lined ourselves up behind the British and have failed once again to strike out independently, with all the influence that we should possess, and try to get something more closely approximating the American ideal?

We boast of our sort of democracy, a middle way. It proved itself dynamic in war, as all the world now knows. But nowhere have we achieved it, despite all our prestige and power. The doing has been that of others.

This is demonstrated in Europe. England has tried, with some notable failures, to strew friendly puppet kings about southern and southeastern Europe to achieve her purposes.

Russia has been at the same game, and with some success, by influencing the setting up of so-called "People's Republics," as in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, which have their own puppet dictators to bely the name of Republics.

Nowhere is there the middle way of our sort of democracy. Ours seems the minor role, tagging along with England. That's the easiest way. Maybe it's the only practical way in a tough world, since the diplomats seem to be choosing up sides on what are known as "ideological" grounds. But it's certainly not "the American way" that we envisioned only a year ago.

In Spain England backs Franco, and we go along. In China we are backing reaction and not the middle way.

England is our natural ally for many obvious reasons. But she still has her imperial ambitions. The Labor government seems not to have changed that much. Looking back, it is possible to see how we have come to where we are today.

It was plain at San Francisco, when the United Nations was being created, that the British were egging us on against Russia. That was England's interest. It was easy because Russia was so rough and blunt in her tactics.

At the first London conference, we stood on the side and let England and Russia fight it out. The inference was that our role would be that of independent arbiter. But this was all changed, and by one daring speech.

That was when Winston Churchill hurled his thunderbolt at Fulton, Mo., and so stirred up sentiment throughout this country that the Alliance in all but name that he sought was sealed. We seemed thereafter to yield our moral force and our independence.

We came out of the war with a mission, or so we thought. We seem to have lost track of it, which might have been inevitable with the hard facts that we faced. Perhaps the game was already fixed against us.

But we still have a mighty role to play if we keep the peace. For we came out of the war also with a terrific responsibility. That was the atomic bomb, opening the way to a new sort of warfare.

President Truman commendably has called a halt to tossing it about in the Pacific any more.

His voice, or someone's voice, is needed to re-state our ideals. It's not yet too late.

State Medicine Fault.

Dr. J. B. Parfitt, immediate past president of the British Dental Association, says statistics show that under the present national health insurance service of Great Britain six teeth are removed for every tooth that is saved, and "in consequence of previous dilapidation a 12-tooth denture is inserted.

He declares that the present system of service in that country will produce a serious sacrifice of quality, instead of good dentists saving all the teeth of children for permanent good looks and good chewing—as is the general practice in the U. S. A. where there is no State Medicine.—Detroit News.

CUSTOMS EVADERS

RANGOON, Burma — (AP) — A concrete strong room has been built onto the Rangoon Customs House to hold thousands of repees' worth of goods seized each month from persons accused of attempting to avoid paying import duties when returning to former occupied areas from war-time havens in India.

The penalty for attempted evasion is three times the amount of the duty. Most persons choose to abandon the goods, sold periodically to swell the Burma government treasury.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Sept. 14.

ALTHOUGH this should be a day of excellent opportunity for promotion, expansive and unusual activity, yet a tendency to over-do or to overreach high ambitions and aspirations might "o'er leap itself" and come a cropper on the other side.

While the judgment may be shrewd and faculties alert, the best results arise from sturdy, steady and diligent weighing of underlying situations and lasting values.

Refrain from all extravagances, "plunges" and other temptations to show, bombast or exaggerations. Progress and happiness are around the corner.

Those whose birthday it is are at the crossroads of a year of excellent promise, with advancement, preferment and recognition from those in high places, but all such is in approbation for hard and meritorius labor, with safe and sane balance.

Excess, extravagances and exaggerated performances in any direction might endanger such rewards, which should have the happiest of reactions on the private, domestic, social and affectional relations. Patience and sound tactics win enduring recompense.

A child born on this day possesses many talents and lofty ambitions, which it may secure by patient effort, application, modesty and due recognition born of these traits and endowments.

Add a teaspoonful of celery seed to the dry ingredients when making biscuit dough for a meat pie crust.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

IN A BAD TEMPER

Of temper always keep command;
Don't ever let it out of hand.

—Old Mother Nature.

The Great World is full of troubles caused by bad tempers. If no one ever lost his temper what a glorious place to live in the Great World would be! A good temper is one of life's greatest blessings, but even a good temper will sometimes go bad, usually from disappointment. There is no greater cause of bad tempers than disappointments.

Reddy Fox was in a bad temper Yes, sir, Reddy was in a bad temper and disappointments were the cause of it. It isn't often that Reddy's temper gets away from him. Usually he is too smart to let it. But this time disappointments were too much for him. To begin with he had found in a bramble-tangle a small and very young Rabbit who could not have been out in the Great World more than a few days and so could know almost nothing of it. The little Rabbit had never seen a Fox and didn't know who he was. He was sure it would be an easy matter to induce that young Rabbit to come out where catching him would be simply a matter of one quick spring.

So he pretended to be a friend Knowing that there was little to eat in that bramble-tangle and also how fond all Rabbits are of clover he pretended to know where there was a patch of the sweetest clover not far away and offered to take the little Rabbit there. Several times the latter started as if to come out, then changed his mind. Each time Reddy had grinned what he meant for a friendly grin, forgetting that in doing this he showed his long sharp teeth. Then he had told the little Rabbit to go to a certain place for the clover and had hidden close by. A Merry Little Breeze had spoiled that plan by taking Reddy's scent to the little Rabbit, making him so suspicious that he had run back to the safe old bramble-tangle.

Then Reddy had surprised Old Jed Thumper, the big, gray old Rabbit who had lived in the Old Pasture as long as he had and whom he had tried and tried to catch. This time he so nearly succeeded that the disappointment when he failed was greater than ever.

So Reddy was in a bad temper when he came up an old cowpath toward the brambles beneath which lived the little Rabbit. But good temper or bad temper, Reddy never forgets to walk softly and keep eyes and ears and nose at work. As he came around a bend in the old cowpath he saw something that caused him to freeze, as keeping perfectly still is called In the path by the bramble-tangle sat the little Rabbit, and with him was a Mouse. The sight of either one was enough to make the mouth of any Fox water, and here were the two together. Reddy's mouth watered

So slowly that he didn't appear to move at all he crouched close to the ground. Then little by little he crept forward. He even tried to hold his breath. Nearer he crawled and nearer. Just a few feet more and he would be near enough for a swift rush and spring that would catch one of them and perhaps both.

Just then the Mouse ran back under a fern that hid him from Reddy's sight. The small Rabbit turned his head and looked straight at Reddy Perhaps without meaning to Reddy moved a wee bit and the little Rabbit saw him. Perhaps he saw Reddy's long sharp teeth Anyway he turned and dived into that bramble-tangle. With a snarl Reddy rushed and leaped. He was just too late Had he been no more than a foot nearer when he started his rush he would have succeeded.

It was then that Reddy really lost his temper. Yes sir, he lost his temper completely Snarling with rage he tried to push his way into that bramble-tangle. The little paths through and under those brambles were plenty big enough for a little Rabbit to scamper along but they were not big enough for Reddy to even crawl along He pushed and struggled and did his best to force his way through, but in vain. The brambles clutched at him and held him. They tore his handsome red coat. They scratched his nose and his black eyes. They made him yelp. And in the end he had to back out as best he could, whining as he did it. That is what a bad temper did to Reddy Fox.

The next story: "The Price of a Bad Temper."

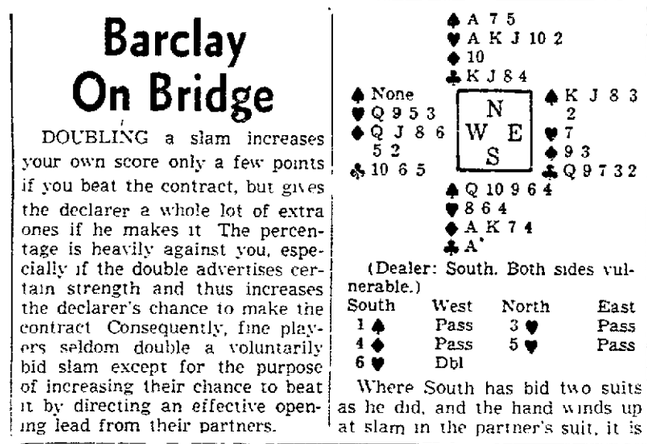
DOUBLING a slam increases your own score only a few points if you beat the contract, but gives the declarer a whole lot of extra ones if he makes it The percentage is heavily against you, especially if the double advertises certain strength and thus increases the declarer's chance to make the contract Consequently, fine players seldom double a voluntarily bid slam except for the purpose of increasing their chance to beat it by directing an effective opening lead from their partners.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Where South has bid two suits as he did, and the hand winds up at slam in the partner's suit, it is conventional with most good players nowadays that a double by the leader's partner calls for an opening of the dummy's first-named suit. That's exactly the Way East treated it this time. He led the spade 3 North put on the 9 from dummy, and West ruffed with the heart 3.

From there on in, the contract could not be beaten if North played soundly, as he did West led back his diamond Q to the K, the A furnished a discard of the spade 7, the club A was scored, the heart J finessed, the club 8 ruffed, the diamond 4 ruffed and the club J ruffed The diamond 7 was ruffed to put North back in his own hand. Then the heart tops settled West's last trumps, and North finished by scoring the spade A and club K.

Without the double, North would have been virtually certain to lose one trick in spades and one in either trumps or clubs, by any normal play.
